

Living things and their Habitats

Crucial Knowledge

Vertebrates are animals with a backbone.

Invertebrates are animals with no backbone.

The main invertebrates are: insects, arachnids, molluscs.

The main groups of vertebrates are: fish, amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals.

Changing a habitat has effects on living things.

